

THE LATE ATTORNEY GENERAL.——The late Attorney General, Sir A. Cockburn, who has accepted the office of Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, took his farewell of the Middle Temple, of which he has been so distinguished a member, on Monday night, in a very full hall. Sir A. Cockburn was most loudly and uproariously cheered as he left the hall, which he acknowledged by bowing repeatedly, evidently much affected.

THE LATE LORD MAYOR.—The following vote of thanks to the late Lord Mayor was presented at the Court of Aldermen on Tuesday. "That the cordial thanks of this Court be presented to the Right Hon. David Salomon, late Lord Mayor of this City, for the courtesy and ability with which he has presided over the deliberations of this Court; for the efficient manner in which he has discharged the various duties of chief magistrate; and for the liberal and judicious manner in which he has not only visited the dignity which he holds, but also the right of God will be."

THE LATE LORD MAYOR.—The following vote of thanks to the late Lord Mayor was presented at the Court of Aldermen on Tuesday. "That the cordial thanks of this Court be presented to the Right Hon. David Salomon, late Lord Mayor of this City, for the courtesy and ability with which he has presided over the deliberations of this Court; for the efficient manner in which he has discharged the various duties of chief magistrate; and for the liberal and judicious manner in which he has not only visited the dignity which he holds, but also the right of God will be."

THE LATE LORD MAYOR.—The following vote of thanks to the late Lord Mayor was presented at the Court of Aldermen on Tuesday. "That the cordial thanks of this Court be presented to the Right Hon. David Salomon, late Lord Mayor of this City, for the courtesy and ability with which he has presided over the deliberations of this Court; for the efficient manner in which he has discharged the various duties of chief magistrate; and for the liberal and judicious manner in which he has not only visited the dignity which he holds, but also the right of God will be."

Rally Raid in the Womp Desert, Furnifold

GFCM Prices
by Uche Markopolos

Here are the current prices of goods:

Current prices (in SHD):

Corn- 0.62 per bushel (down 3 percent)

Okra- 22.43 per bushel (up 13 percent)

Rice- 14.79 per bushel (down 1 percent)

Soy- 3.54 per bushel (up 22 percent)

Sugar Cane- 5.52 per bushel (down 18 percent)

Index total: 46.89 (up 5 percent)

Non-Index Commodities (in SHD):

Cotton: 0.57 per pound (down 4 percent)

Endemic Fruits: 9.96 per carton (down 1 percent)

Meat: 12.91 per pound (up 3 percent)

Milk: 62.21 per hundredweight (up 9 percent) to solicit input from concerned individuals and groups. After these input sessions, the organizers, composed mainly of officials from Furnifold and Blueacia, modified the daily routes to better mitigate these concerns.

SPORTS

The race will be a week-long race, composed of five routes run over the week. Competitors will have to navigate rocky terrain, fish-fesh, and sand dunes. The routes will for the most part begin and end in Kwoleck, though there are a couple of routes that will end and begin in Acoco. There will be classes for all-terrain vehicles (ATVs), trucks, and motorcycles. Organizers are expecting at least 100 competitors, and are hopeful nationalities will enter the rally.

The sales at Tattersall's, on Monday, include Rhodyena, the 1850 winner of the Oaks, along with her three-year-old son, Mr. Verdant Green; and a two-year-old filly and a colt-fal out of her both of them by Weatherbit.

After a good deal of delay it is at last announced that Mr. Farby, who defeated Mr. Frank Sutton's pack as a gift, last year, is to hunt the Harbort country two days a week. As yet, no very great run has been reported; but, Jew Hill has had another slight accident, in consequence of some fair Diana Vernon charging a bulldozer just in his line, and thus forcing him, in his gallop, to check his horse.

Mr. Phillips now hunts the Pembroke as well as the Ashlake, and Mr. Captain Dye, a resident landholder, is hunting the Musgrave, ex-Cork. Excess are very plentiful, and the season has been inaugurated by a splendid dinner to the master in Cork.

Steeplechasing is making a feeble effort, but the spirit of the wickets of 1879 and 1849 can be evoked no more. "Puffing" has been the order of the day, and the Marquis of Waterford no longer sends over to the other side to compel the rogues to go straight, and ruthlessly knock over all "arrangements."

Still the Eastern counties are making some progress, but three races on Wednesday, two of them with no spectators, and the others at Windsor, promise no good days, at least, on each, for Thursday and Friday.

There have also insisted on having their steeplechase restored to their Spring programme; but all their efforts to make anything of it will be useless.

On Tuesday and Wednesday: Luncheon (Lendal, Meath), 10.00; March (open), 1.00. I will also, we believe, come off his best in immense force at...

On Thursday: Luncheon (Lendal, Meath), 10.00; March (open), 1.00. I will also, we believe, come off his best in immense force at...

On Friday: Luncheon (Lendal, Meath), 10.00; March (open), 1.00. I will also, we believe, come off his best in immense force at...

On Saturday: Luncheon (Lendal, Meath), 10.00; March (open), 1.00. I will also, we believe, come off his best in immense force at...

On Sunday: Luncheon (Lendal, Meath), 10.00; March (open), 1.00. I will also, we believe, come off his best in immense force at...

On Monday: Luncheon (Lendal, Meath), 10.00; March (open), 1.00. I will also, we believe, come off his best in immense force at...

On Tuesday: Luncheon (Lendal, Meath), 10.00; March (open), 1.00. I will also, we believe, come off his best in immense force at...

On Wednesday: Luncheon (Lendal, Meath), 10.00; March (open), 1.00. I will also, we believe, come off his best in immense force at...

On Thursday: Luncheon (Lendal, Meath), 10.00; March (open), 1.00. I will also, we believe, come off his best in immense force at...

On Friday: Luncheon (Lendal, Meath), 10.00; March (open), 1.00. I will also, we believe, come off his best in immense force at...

Who is to write the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the Duke of Wellington? The citizens have generally called in some able pen to commemorate the virtues and genius of the men they delight to honour. Burke wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the great Lord Chatham; Sheridan wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Nelson; and Canning wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Mr. Pitt. At times, however, the citizens have been less literary, and Mr. Alderman Birch—in no way glib—challenging competition with Burke, Sheridan, and Canning, put quill to paper and wrote (yes, Mr. Alderman Birch wrote it) the inscription for the Guildhall monument to King George the Fourth. Mr. Birch's inscription was a very good one, and we shall see the result. Mr. Birch's inscription will be asked to be written by some one else, and the inscription will be written by some one else.

Who is to write the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the Duke of Wellington? The citizens have generally called in some able pen to commemorate the virtues and genius of the men they delight to honour. Burke wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the great Lord Chatham; Sheridan wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Nelson; and Canning wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Mr. Pitt. At times, however, the citizens have been less literary, and Mr. Alderman Birch—in no way glib—challenging competition with Burke, Sheridan, and Canning, put quill to paper and wrote (yes, Mr. Alderman Birch wrote it) the inscription for the Guildhall monument to King George the Fourth.

Who is to write the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the Duke of Wellington? The citizens have generally called in some able pen to commemorate the virtues and genius of the men they delight to honour. Burke wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the great Lord Chatham; Sheridan wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Nelson; and Canning wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Mr. Pitt. At times, however, the citizens have been less literary, and Mr. Alderman Birch—in no way glib—challenging competition with Burke, Sheridan, and Canning, put quill to paper and wrote (yes, Mr. Alderman Birch wrote it) the inscription for the Guildhall monument to King George the Fourth.

Who is to write the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the Duke of Wellington? The citizens have generally called in some able pen to commemorate the virtues and genius of the men they delight to honour. Burke wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the great Lord Chatham; Sheridan wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Nelson; and Canning wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Mr. Pitt. At times, however, the citizens have been less literary, and Mr. Alderman Birch—in no way glib—challenging competition with Burke, Sheridan, and Canning, put quill to paper and wrote (yes, Mr. Alderman Birch wrote it) the inscription for the Guildhall monument to King George the Fourth.

Who is to write the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the Duke of Wellington? The citizens have generally called in some able pen to commemorate the virtues and genius of the men they delight to honour. Burke wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the great Lord Chatham; Sheridan wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Nelson; and Canning wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Mr. Pitt. At times, however, the citizens have been less literary, and Mr. Alderman Birch—in no way glib—challenging competition with Burke, Sheridan, and Canning, put quill to paper and wrote (yes, Mr. Alderman Birch wrote it) the inscription for the Guildhall monument to King George the Fourth.

Who is to write the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the Duke of Wellington? The citizens have generally called in some able pen to commemorate the virtues and genius of the men they delight to honour. Burke wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the great Lord Chatham; Sheridan wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Nelson; and Canning wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Mr. Pitt. At times, however, the citizens have been less literary, and Mr. Alderman Birch—in no way glib—challenging competition with Burke, Sheridan, and Canning, put quill to paper and wrote (yes, Mr. Alderman Birch wrote it) the inscription for the Guildhall monument to King George the Fourth.

Who is to write the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the Duke of Wellington? The citizens have generally called in some able pen to commemorate the virtues and genius of the men they delight to honour. Burke wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the great Lord Chatham; Sheridan wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Nelson; and Canning wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Mr. Pitt. At times, however, the citizens have been less literary, and Mr. Alderman Birch—in no way glib—challenging competition with Burke, Sheridan, and Canning, put quill to paper and wrote (yes, Mr. Alderman Birch wrote it) the inscription for the Guildhall monument to King George the Fourth.

Who is to write the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the Duke of Wellington? The citizens have generally called in some able pen to commemorate the virtues and genius of the men they delight to honour. Burke wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the great Lord Chatham; Sheridan wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Nelson; and Canning wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Mr. Pitt. At times, however, the citizens have been less literary, and Mr. Alderman Birch—in no way glib—challenging competition with Burke, Sheridan, and Canning, put quill to paper and wrote (yes, Mr. Alderman Birch wrote it) the inscription for the Guildhall monument to King George the Fourth.

Who is to write the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the Duke of Wellington? The citizens have generally called in some able pen to commemorate the virtues and genius of the men they delight to honour. Burke wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the great Lord Chatham; Sheridan wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Nelson; and Canning wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Mr. Pitt. At times, however, the citizens have been less literary, and Mr. Alderman Birch—in no way glib—challenging competition with Burke, Sheridan, and Canning, put quill to paper and wrote (yes, Mr. Alderman Birch wrote it) the inscription for the Guildhall monument to King George the Fourth.

Who is to write the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the Duke of Wellington? The citizens have generally called in some able pen to commemorate the virtues and genius of the men they delight to honour. Burke wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the great Lord Chatham; Sheridan wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Nelson; and Canning wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Mr. Pitt. At times, however, the citizens have been less literary, and Mr. Alderman Birch—in no way glib—challenging competition with Burke, Sheridan, and Canning, put quill to paper and wrote (yes, Mr. Alderman Birch wrote it) the inscription for the Guildhall monument to King George the Fourth.

Who is to write the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the Duke of Wellington? The citizens have generally called in some able pen to commemorate the virtues and genius of the men they delight to honour. Burke wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the great Lord Chatham; Sheridan wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Nelson; and Canning wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Mr. Pitt. At times, however, the citizens have been less literary, and Mr. Alderman Birch—in no way glib—challenging competition with Burke, Sheridan, and Canning, put quill to paper and wrote (yes, Mr. Alderman Birch wrote it) the inscription for the Guildhall monument to King George the Fourth.

Who is to write the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the Duke of Wellington? The citizens have generally called in some able pen to commemorate the virtues and genius of the men they delight to honour. Burke wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the great Lord Chatham; Sheridan wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Nelson; and Canning wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Mr. Pitt. At times, however, the citizens have been less literary, and Mr. Alderman Birch—in no way glib—challenging competition with Burke, Sheridan, and Canning, put quill to paper and wrote (yes, Mr. Alderman Birch wrote it) the inscription for the Guildhall monument to King George the Fourth.

Who is to write the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the Duke of Wellington? The citizens have generally called in some able pen to commemorate the virtues and genius of the men they delight to honour. Burke wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the great Lord Chatham; Sheridan wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Nelson; and Canning wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Mr. Pitt. At times, however, the citizens have been less literary, and Mr. Alderman Birch—in no way glib—challenging competition with Burke, Sheridan, and Canning, put quill to paper and wrote (yes, Mr. Alderman Birch wrote it) the inscription for the Guildhall monument to King George the Fourth.

Who is to write the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the Duke of Wellington? The citizens have generally called in some able pen to commemorate the virtues and genius of the men they delight to honour. Burke wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the great Lord Chatham; Sheridan wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Nelson; and Canning wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Mr. Pitt. At times, however, the citizens have been less literary, and Mr. Alderman Birch—in no way glib—challenging competition with Burke, Sheridan, and Canning, put quill to paper and wrote (yes, Mr. Alderman Birch wrote it) the inscription for the Guildhall monument to King George the Fourth.

Who is to write the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the Duke of Wellington? The citizens have generally called in some able pen to commemorate the virtues and genius of the men they delight to honour. Burke wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the great Lord Chatham; Sheridan wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Nelson; and Canning wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Mr. Pitt. At times, however, the citizens have been less literary, and Mr. Alderman Birch—in no way glib—challenging competition with Burke, Sheridan, and Canning, put quill to paper and wrote (yes, Mr. Alderman Birch wrote it) the inscription for the Guildhall monument to King George the Fourth.

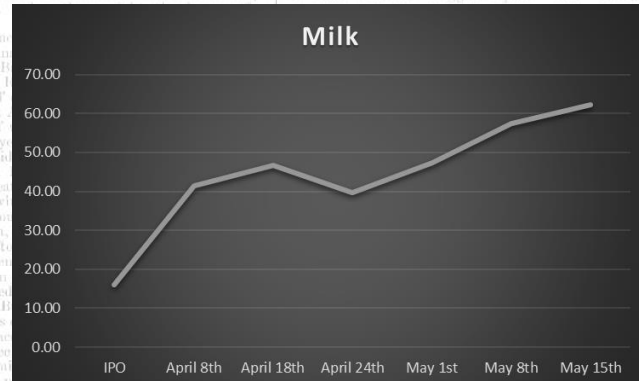

Who is to write the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the Duke of Wellington? The citizens have generally called in some able pen to commemorate the virtues and genius of the men they delight to honour. Burke wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the great Lord Chatham; Sheridan wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Nelson; and Canning wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Mr. Pitt. At times, however, the citizens have been less literary, and Mr. Alderman Birch—in no way glib—challenging competition with Burke, Sheridan, and Canning, put quill to paper and wrote (yes, Mr. Alderman Birch wrote it) the inscription for the Guildhall monument to King George the Fourth.

Who is to write the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the Duke of Wellington? The citizens have generally called in some able pen to commemorate the virtues and genius of the men they delight to honour. Burke wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the great Lord Chatham; Sheridan wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Nelson; and Canning wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Mr. Pitt. At times, however, the citizens have been less literary, and Mr. Alderman Birch—in no way glib—challenging competition with Burke, Sheridan, and Canning, put quill to paper and wrote (yes, Mr. Alderman Birch wrote it) the inscription for the Guildhall monument to King George the Fourth.

Who is to write the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the Duke of Wellington? The citizens have generally called in some able pen to commemorate the virtues and genius of the men they delight to honour. Burke wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the great Lord Chatham; Sheridan wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Nelson; and Canning wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Mr. Pitt. At times, however, the citizens have been less literary, and Mr. Alderman Birch—in no way glib—challenging competition with Burke, Sheridan, and Canning, put quill to paper and wrote (yes, Mr. Alderman Birch wrote it) the inscription for the Guildhall monument to King George the Fourth.

Who is to write the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the Duke of Wellington? The citizens have generally called in some able pen to commemorate the virtues and genius of the men they delight to honour. Burke wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the great Lord Chatham; Sheridan wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Nelson; and Canning wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Mr. Pitt. At times, however, the citizens have been less literary, and Mr. Alderman Birch—in no way glib—challenging competition with Burke, Sheridan, and Canning, put quill to paper and wrote (yes, Mr. Alderman Birch wrote it) the inscription for the Guildhall monument to King George the Fourth.

Who is to write the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the Duke of Wellington? The citizens have generally called in some able pen to commemorate the virtues and genius of the men they delight to honour. Burke wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the great Lord Chatham; Sheridan wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Nelson; and Canning wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Mr. Pitt. At times, however, the citizens have been less literary, and Mr. Alderman Birch—in no way glib—challenging competition with Burke, Sheridan, and Canning, put quill to paper and wrote (yes, Mr. Alderman Birch wrote it) the inscription for the Guildhall monument to King George the Fourth.

Who is to write the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the Duke of Wellington? The citizens have generally called in some able pen to commemorate the virtues and genius of the men they delight to honour. Burke wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the great Lord Chatham; Sheridan wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Nelson; and Canning wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Mr. Pitt. At times, however, the citizens have been less literary, and Mr. Alderman Birch—in no way glib—challenging competition with Burke, Sheridan, and Canning, put quill to paper and wrote (yes, Mr. Alderman Birch wrote it) the inscription for the Guildhall monument to King George the Fourth.

Who is to write the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the Duke of Wellington? The citizens have generally called in some able pen to commemorate the virtues and genius of the men they delight to honour. Burke wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the great Lord Chatham; Sheridan wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Nelson; and Canning wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Mr. Pitt. At times, however, the citizens have been less literary, and Mr. Alderman Birch—in no way glib—challenging competition with Burke, Sheridan, and Canning, put quill to paper and wrote (yes, Mr. Alderman Birch wrote it) the inscription for the Guildhall monument to King George the Fourth.

Who is to write the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the Duke of Wellington? The citizens have generally called in some able pen to commemorate the virtues and genius of the men they delight to honour. Burke wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the great Lord Chatham; Sheridan wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Nelson; and Canning wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Mr. Pitt. At times, however, the citizens have been less literary, and Mr. Alderman Birch—in no way glib—challenging competition with Burke, Sheridan, and Canning, put quill to paper and wrote (yes, Mr. Alderman Birch wrote it) the inscription for the Guildhall monument to King George the Fourth.

Who is to write the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the Duke of Wellington? The citizens have generally called in some able pen to commemorate the virtues and genius of the men they delight to honour. Burke wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the great Lord Chatham; Sheridan wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Nelson; and Canning wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Mr. Pitt. At times, however, the citizens have been less literary, and Mr. Alderman Birch—in no way glib—challenging competition with Burke, Sheridan, and Canning, put quill to paper and wrote (yes, Mr. Alderman Birch wrote it) the inscription for the Guildhall monument to King George the Fourth.

Who is to write the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the Duke of Wellington? The citizens have generally called in some able pen to commemorate the virtues and genius of the men they delight to honour. Burke wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to the great Lord Chatham; Sheridan wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Nelson; and Canning wrote the inscription for the Guildhall monument to Mr. Pitt. At times, however, the citizens have been less literary, and Mr. Alderman Birch—in no way glib—challenging competition with Burke, Sheridan, and Canning, put quill to paper and wrote (yes, Mr. Alderman Birch wrote it) the inscription for the Guildhall monument to King George the Fourth.

